Lebo stands out with a high-quality range of lacquers

Lebo stands for exceptional quality, from basic lacquer to high-end spray coating. Lacquer expertise to be proud of.

When buying new doors, the most important aspect besides the design and the "technical equipment" is a flawless lacquer finish. This should be durable and abrasion-resistant, environmentally friendly and odorless, while still in line with the homeowner's own style.

It should be perfectly matched to current on-trend colours as well as to window frames, sockets and light switches. The structure of the lacquers at Lebo varies depending on the door model and is sometimes very complex.

Not only are different lacquers used, but also different technologies are used to apply them, resulting in a perfect lacquer finish.

Lebo is constantly investing in improving lacquer finishes and new technologies to ensure that customers continue to receive exceptional value for money.
